Mermaid Mischief

Elusive when in the water, mermaid sightings have been whispered about for centuries. Legends tell us that once gaining the shore, a mermaid's tail disappears and they sea-cretly walk among us. Envisioning what one of these winsome creatures may wear, this sundress was created. In shades of green and blue silky cotton, the curved yoke is draped with a golden stitched "net" and shell trim. The skirt is softly gathered featuring a swishy-fishy hemband of rows of prairie point scales and tapered ruffle fins. Finishing touches include braided halter ties and an elastic dress back. A mer-magnet guaranteed to make a big splash!
